

DRWakefield

EST. 1970

Colombia

POTOSI

The Potosi farm was the first farm owned by Don Rigoberto's family.

Colombia

CAFE GRANJA LA ESPERANZA

Farm	Potosi
Producer	Rigoberto Herrera
Municipality	Trujillo
Altitude	1400 – 1860 masl
Size	74 hectares, 52 hectares under coffee.
Varietals	Sidra, Mandela, Colombia, Caturra, CGLE17, SL34, Yirgacheffe, Tabi, Castillo
Processes	Anaerobic, Natural, Honey, and Washed
Harvest	All year round

The farm that started it all, where Blanca Ligia Correa and Juan Antonio Herrera worked. In 1945 they introduced Yellow Bourbon, Red Bourbon and Caturra to the existing Typica and Café Granja La Esperanza was born.

22 hectares of the farm is forest land, and with the 52 hectares dedicated to coffee, it's the biggest farm in the area. It lies across the sweet, misty valley from Las Margaritas and handles the dry milling for both farms.

The three mechanical driers that it is also home to set fire to the farmhouse in 2018 (no one was hurt) and earned them the nickname of Tres Dragones, or three dragons.

Experimentation is also carried out on the farm, currently with some mother/father geisha breeding trials as well as varieties being field tested before larger scale production is carried out.

